FOR ISRAEL

Food has a unique way of carrying our stories. It connects us to family, culture, tradition, and the people and places we hold dear. Join Shlichim Mor Roffee and Yarden Shiri (as part of a 4 day Shlichut) as they explore the powerful connection between food, memory, resilience, and hope. Drawing from their personal experiences in Israel, they'll share how recipes and food traditions can carry stories, connect us to family and home, bring comfort during difficult times, and preserve memories.

The program combines hands-on cooking with guided group discussion, creating space for both personal engagement and meaningful reflection. Participants will gather around round tables, each featuring a cookie recipe from Recipes with Memory, a meaningful memorial project that uses food and cherished recipes to honor fallen Israeli soldiers and victims of terror.

Together, we'll reflect on the October 7 attacks and other experiences that have shaped their lives, and consider how food can help us remember, find strength, and come together.
