A MESSAGE FROM OUR LEADERSHIP

Dear friends,

"I've never felt prouder to be Jewish." These were the words of one community member who joined us at our rally on Parliament Hill. And we've heard them countless times since. After October 7th—the darkest day for the Jewish people since the Holocaust—we united and showed the world exactly what it means to be Jewish. It means we're family, whether we live in Toronto, Sderot, or anywhere else in the world. And it is always worth standing up for family.

October 7th changed each of us and our entire world. So many of us were personally connected to someone affected in Israel—whether it was a hostage family, an innocent person murdered by Hamas, a family sitting in a bomb shelter, or someone serving their country. October 7th also changed the reality of being Jewish in Toronto. We've all felt the chilling rise of antisemitism in Canada, as antisemites become bolder and more aggressive—intimidating our community and spreading their hate.

Yet in the face of all this hate and pain, we stood up for what's right and took action. This is the Toronto Jewish community: we bring to bear our strength whenever the Jewish people face crisis. We came together to donate millions of dollars in aid to Israelis devastated by conflict. We came together by the tens of thousands to rally and encourage our leaders to advocate for the release of the hostages. We sent tons of medical and other supplies overseas. While we help Israelis prepare for a long-term recovery, we're also mounting a strong, community-wide response to defend our rights and our security here in Canada.

And while we responded to crisis, we also continued building this special community—one that takes care of those struggling with poverty; one that invests in its youth to build a love of Judaism and of Israel.

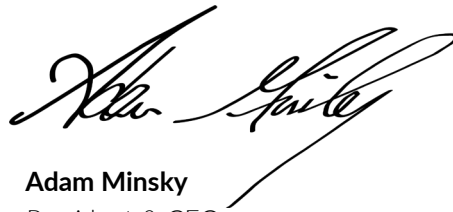

A community defined by Jewish pride, rallying together in times of crisis, and one that doubles down in the face of hate. In 2023, it was hard to be Jewish. But in that darkness, our community brought light—saving lives, taking up the mission of securing our Jewish future.

To everyone who gave generously: thank you for taking a stand. We hope this report provides a meaningful update on what you've achieved this year. This is what it means to be Jewish—to be there when we're needed. This is why we're proud.

Sincerely,

Jeffrey Rosenthal

[THE EVENTS OF 2023 DEMONSTRATE]

WHY OUR COMMUNITY NEEDS THE ANNUAL CAMPAIGN

Jewish Toronto has always depended on the Annual Campaign to keep the foundations of our community strong, and rapidly address crises as they emerge. By pooling our resources together as a Jewish community, we can direct dollars to where they are most needed—and make the greatest impact. The Annual Campaign is the engine of Jewish life, and the way we take care of our local and global Jewish family. Dollars donated to the Annual Campaign are invested in four crucial pillars of work:

GROWING JEWISH IDENTITY & EDUCATION

So that every generation can grow in their love and knowledge of Judaism, while deepening their commitment to community.

COUNTERING ANTISEMITISM & ENHANCING COMMUNITY SECURITY

So that our community can continue to live proudly, publicly, and safely as Jewish Canadians.

FIGHTING JEWISH POVERTY & IMPROVING JEWISH WELL-BEING

So that community members everywhere can feel empowered and enjoy lives filled with opportunity and growth.

STRENGTHENING CONNECTIONS TO ISRAEL & EMPOWERING GLOBAL JEWISH COMMUNITIES IN NEED

So that Jewish Toronto remains a leader in building up the people of Israel and Jews everywhere.

HOW WE MAXIMIZE RESULTS

AT UJA, YOUR GIFT GETS MATCHED.

Through UJA's work with governments, private foundations, and philanthropists, our investments generate leveraged matching funds raised through the Annual Campaign. For every dollar raised, an additional 46 cents goes to important causes in the community.

UJA MAKES DECISIONS USING EXPERT COMMUNITY PLANNERS AND DATA SCIENTISTS.

Just as one makes informed decisions in everyday life, the same should apply to philanthropic giving. Donations to UJA are allocated based on exclusive community data, ensuring our holistic plan to strengthen the community is comprehensive and meticulous, while eliminating duplication to maximize the impact and efficiency of our dollars.

UJA HAS UNIQUE REACH ACROSS OUR ENTIRE JEWISH COMMUNITY—AT HOME, IN CANADA, ISRAEL, AND AROUND THE WORLD.

Through partnerships, we share best practices and expertise, and tap into the full power of the local, national, and global Jewish communities. Here at home, we mobilize the extraordinary talent of the Toronto Jewish community. Hundreds of volunteers and lay leaders come together and bring their best ideas, the strength of their networks, and their invaluable skills—all for the benefit of the Jewish people.

UJA MOVES WITH SPEED AND STRENGTH.

Within 48 hours of the October 7th attacks, we mobilized 20,000 community members for a public show of support for Israel at Mel Lastman Square. Four days later, we raised $50 million from more than 5,000 donors, and delivered our first wave of emergency funding to Israel. Our response to the crisis in Israel is just one example of how we are ready to move rapidly and with decisive force when needed.

A large, dense crowd of people is shown from a slightly elevated perspective, filling the frame. Many individuals are holding up small Israeli flags on sticks, which are waving in the air. The flags are white with two horizontal blue stripes and a blue Star of David in the center. The crowd is diverse in age and appearance, with some people looking towards the camera and others looking in different directions. The background is slightly blurred, emphasizing the foreground activity. The overall atmosphere appears to be one of a significant public gathering or rally.

EXPERIENCES THAT MADE US PROUDLY JEWISH THIS YEAR

KICKING OFF UJA'S 2023 ANNUAL CAMPAIGN

On September 7, 2023, nearly 2,000 community members gathered in downtown Toronto to celebrate Jewish identity at UJA's Campaign Launch. The event was electric, with a musical performance by Nissim Black, standup comedy from Modi, and inspiring stories reflecting the diversity of Jewish Toronto. All this was done to support UJA's Annual Campaign and invest in the strength of our community.

SUPPORTING HOLOCAUST SURVIVORS

The Holocaust Survivors Support Fund distributed vital funds to Circle of Care and Jewish Family and Child Service (JF&CS) for initiatives that support the thousands of Holocaust survivors in the Greater Toronto Area (GTA). Through the Conference on Jewish Material Claims Against Germany (Claims Conference), for every dollar raised, more than $20 is secured in matching funds to care for our survivors.

PREPARING FOR THE FUTURE WITH THE JEWISH FOUNDATION

Through the Jewish Foundation of Greater Toronto, UJA enhances Jewish life in Toronto, now and for future generations. This close relationship led fundholders to grant more than $25 million to UJA's Annual Campaign and special initiatives—almost half of their entire distribution total.

This fall, our youngest and most passionate volunteers came together to support our community. Thanks to their hard work, 150 welcome gifts were created for children arriving from Israel, 100 Hanukkah gifts were wrapped for our friends at Kayla's Children Centre, 500+ hygiene and snack kits were built, and much more. This incredible UJA Genesis initiative was one for the books!

WHAT MADE US PROUDLY JEWISH THIS YEAR

THE INAUGURATION OF THE TORONTO HOLOCAUST MUSEUM

In June 2023, the Toronto Holocaust Museum opened its doors, becoming the first space in Ontario dedicated to exploring the lessons of the Holocaust and its relevance to contemporary society. Since the Museum opened, it has welcomed 50,000 diverse visitors from the GTA and beyond.

ISRAEL GAP YEAR IS LAUNCHED

This year marked the launch of a range of gap year programs, giving Canadian high school graduates the chance to immerse themselves in Israeli life. From volunteering, to exploring, to interning, there were tons of opportunities for young Canadian Jews to strengthen their connection to Israel—and discover their Jewish pride—while experiencing all the country has to offer.

MOMENTUM IN OUR DAY SCHOOLS

Funded by a groundbreaking endowment, UJA’s Generations Trust Scholarship continued to drive growth in day school enrolment. As one promising sign, JK numbers have risen by more than 15 percent since 2020. With day school students being among our most active youth leaders, our entire community is stronger when Jewish education thrives.

A RECORD-BREAKING WALK WITH ISRAEL

In June 2024, an estimated 50,000 people gathered for our annual Walk with Israel. Not only was this our biggest Walk ever—it was the largest gathering of Jews and allies in Canada’s history. Together, we raised more than $1.2 million for the people of Israel—all dedicated to helping Israelis recover and emerge stronger.

STRENGTHENING THE FOUNDATIONS OF COMMUNITY

The war in Israel and antisemitism here at home dominated our attention in 2023—but that doesn't mean we didn't continue making progress on other critical issues facing our community. Here are five big challenges we faced in 2023 and the work we did together to address them.

JEWISH POVERTY

NEARLY 26,000 JEWS ACROSS ALL AGES ARE LIVING IN POVERTY IN OUR REGION. THAT'S NEARLY ONE OUT OF EVERY SEVEN JEWS IN THE GTA.

In 2023, our partner agencies offered support for 1,035 job seekers, 11,650 people living in poverty, 836 individuals in need of financial assistance, and 3,315 individuals requiring mental health services.

VULNERABLE SENIORS

CANADA'S POPULATION IS AGING, AND TORONTO'S JEWISH COMMUNITY IS OLDER ON AVERAGE. CARING FOR OUR SENIORS, ESPECIALLY HOLOCAUST SURVIVORS, IS CRITICAL.

Your gift supported the work of our partner agencies, who offered critically needed assistance to more than 1,700 Holocaust survivors. Recipients benefited from more than 591,000 hours of personal support from social workers, 14,016 rides for essential daily needs, and 183,086 meals.

ISRAEL ENGAGEMENT

AROUND 90 PERCENT OF JEWISH TORONTONIANS FEEL ATTACHED TO ISRAEL. WE MUST CONTINUE NURTURING THIS AFFECTION IN FUTURE GENERATIONS, NEVER TAKING IT FOR GRANTED.

In 2023, around 3,000 young Torontonians experienced Israel through UJA-supported programs, including March of the Living, Birthright Israel, Onward Israel, MASA, Diller Teen Fellows, and Israel Gap Year.

STRENGTHENING JEWISH EDUCATION & IDENTITY

GROWING THE JEWISH PRIDE OF OUR YOUTH BUILDS UP THE NEXT GENERATION OF JEWISH LEADERSHIP. THEY ARE THE FUTURE OF JEWISH TORONTO.

In 2023, 1 in 4 children and young adults in a Jewish day school received financial assistance through UJA. Many young people also receive support to attend Jewish overnight camps, supplementary schools, and other educational opportunities.

GETTING INVOLVED

RESEARCH SHOWS THAT PARTICIPATING IN JEWISH ORGANIZATIONS STRENGTHENS SOCIAL TIES AND CONNECTEDNESS TO THE BROADER JEWISH COMMUNITY.

UJA Genesis and its volunteer opportunities are a powerful way community members can get involved with our community in a hands-on way. UJA Genesis mobilized more than 4,000 volunteers in 2023, with 3,500+ new volunteers getting involved after October 7th.

IN ISRAEL'S TIME OF GREATEST NEED, TORONTO WAS THERE

AFTER OCTOBER 7TH, YOUR GIFT MADE POSSIBLE A COMPREHENSIVE EMERGENCY RESPONSE FOR ISRAELIS

For the idyllic communities of southern Israel, October 7th began as a quiet Shabbat during the holiday of Shmini Atzeret. What should have been a celebration was instead a nightmare. There, Hamas' vicious attacks evoked the worst cruelties of Jewish history. Almost 1,200 Israelis were murdered, thousands wounded, countless sexually assaulted, and more than 200 abducted into Gaza. Israel was suddenly at war.

So began the greatest crisis in the Jewish world in generations—one which summoned the full determination and compassion of the Jewish people everywhere. It was a crisis no one could have predicted, but we faced it together because of your generosity. This is the story of the power of your 2023 gift in the lives of Israelis devastated on October 7th.

SIRENS IN SDEROT

The weekend of October 7th, Mayor of Sderot Alon Davidi was planning to celebrate his birthday. "On Saturday morning, we were surprised by the sirens at 6:30 AM," said Davidi in an interview with UJA. "It was an unusual barrage, so I spoke immediately with our security co-ordinator, Ronen... [he] came to pick me up due to reports of rockets falling." Rocket attacks are a common occurrence in this city of 35,000 people, a short walk from the Gaza border fence. But there was nothing common about what was happening. Three thousand Hamas terrorists were launching a co-ordinated rampage against Israeli civilians across the Gaza envelope, including in Sderot.

"We received reports from residents that there were terrorists in the city, and the connection with the police station was cut off...with limited personnel at the Command Centre, we managed the event alone while sending messages to the residents alerting them to lock themselves in their homes. We had already received pictures of dead bodies and terrorists in the city," Davidi said. The city was devastated. Within hours, Mayor Davidi became the leader of a displaced people.

In those early hours, our partner non-governmental organizations (NGOs) across Israel turned to the Toronto Jewish community. Through UJA, we have supported Israel's most vulnerable communities for years to strengthen resilience in the face of terrorism. "[UJA's] support was available within hours from the time the massacre began...[they] provided solutions, not just financial support," Mayor Davidi said. In less than a week after October 7th, our community collectively raised $50 million for emergency needs. On the Gaza border and across Israel, our aid made possible thousands of new emergency grants to victims of terror, supplied first responders with protective equipment and emergency kits, shared essential supplies for refugees, and much more.

REFUGEES IN THEIR OWN COUNTRY

After October 7th, tens of thousands of people were scattered across Israel. In total, nearly 250,000 Israelis were living in hotels, the homes of generous host families, and other places. Their trauma was only beginning.

Direct aid to the victims of Hamas' evil was a top priority. In the weeks following the attacks, rapid payments were made to more than 4,000 families victimized by terror through The Jewish Agency for Israel's Fund for Victims of Terror,

“WITHOUT THE RELATIONSHIPS WE HAD ALREADY ESTABLISHED IN ISRAEL, OUR COMMUNITY COULD NOT HAVE ALLOCATED EMERGENCY FUNDS AS QUICKLY AND AS EFFICIENTLY AS WE DID.”

ADIR KOSCHITZKY

Co-Chair, UJA's Israel & Overseas Committee

Due to the long-term relationship built over many years, UJA was able to immediately determine the needs of our Israeli partners, mobilize donor support in Toronto, and direct emergency funds into the hands of those most in need within five days.

UJA Fly-In to Israel, January 2024.

supported by UJA. In the first weeks alone, funds raised through the Toronto Jewish community covered the dollars given to 2,000 of those families.

Working with other partners like the HESEG Alumni Association; Brothers and Sisters for Israel; and Leket, Israel's National Food Bank, millions more went toward necessities for evacuees—including mattresses, bedding, housewares, baby products, food, and other essential supplies. We also sent a remarkable 42 tons of basic supplies, airlifted to Israel from Toronto. Every ton was donated by generous community members through a call-to-action organized by UJA Genesis.

Emergency funds were granted to evacuate Israelis living with disabilities. Through our partner Shalva, we helped relocate 1,500 of these evacuees, along with the supplies, medication, and physical care they needed. There was also an urgent need to find and evacuate elderly Israelis living on the Gaza border. Through our partner the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee, workers cared for vulnerable seniors living within 20 kilometres of Gaza.

While caring for evacuees' physical needs, it became essential to provide mental health care and establish a sense of normalcy and stability—especially for children. This challenge was front of mind for Idit Dayan, principal of Gil Rabin Elementary School in Sderot. Amid her own trauma, Idit needed to scramble to get in touch with 585 students and their families, plus staff, make sure they were okay, and then organize ongoing schooling for these young people who were now refugees. Working with UJA, Sderot established an entire “pop-up” education system, outfitting dozens of hotels with kindergartens, nurseries, and schools.

“Thanks to [UJA], we were able to open a school within 24 hours,” said Idit in an interview with UJA. Textbooks, notebooks, stationery, and more were purchased—every material need was met to operate a school inside of a hotel.

YOSSI LANDAU

Southern Commander, ZAKA

After October 7th, ZAKA volunteers worked to recover the bodies of those murdered, so that they may be buried with dignity and in accordance with Jewish religious traditions. ZAKA received an emergency grant of $500,000 from UJA for much-needed protective gear, body bags, and rescue and recovery equipment.

“Thanks to the co-operation of [UJA], our municipal employees were able to identify and reach each of the youth that were in critical need of a space where they could feel safe and express themselves, one that provides meaning and value,” said Gil Chadash, Sderot’s director of education, in an interview with UJA.

Talia (age 14), Avia (age 12), and Naria (age eight) were three children who attended one pop-up school. Their mother, Moran, described the immense sense of uncertainty she and her family have felt since fleeing Sderot and arriving at the Dead Sea with other evacuees. “The key reason we have not left the Dead Sea is because of the educational space opened here,” she said. “The children really connected with the students that they had not met prior to moving here, and to all of the staff and teachers.”

WHAT’S COMING NEXT

For the survivors of October 7th, the journey to recovery is far from over. Evacuees are living with unimaginable trauma. Gil Chadash recounts meeting a mother who fled Sderot by car, laying her children down under the floor of the back seat. “When she arrived [in Bat Yam], people had to pry each finger from the steering wheel, because she was so tense,” Gil said. “The children will never be the same as they were before October 7th.”

But trauma is not a new phenomenon for the people Sderot. For years, seven out of 10 kids here have lived with a form of PTSD—among the highest rates in the world. “In the last three and

Chairperson, The Jewish Agency’s Fund for Victims of Terror.

UJA has long supported the Fund for Victims of Terror, which provides financial aid to families devastated by terrorism, often within 48 hours. The fund also covers the care needed on the road to recovery so that survivors can rebuild their lives.

a half years, together with [UJA], we have worked to develop the field of Social Emotional Learning (SEL) in Sderot,” said Gil. “We focus on four muscles that need to be strengthened—perseverance, regulation, informed decision making, and empathy. Working on these ‘muscles’ allows both children and adults to overcome challenges such as the war.”

THERE FOR THE LONG-TERM

Together we’ve strengthened resilience in Israel for years. While we’ve bolstered our support in the immediate aftermath of October 7th, this will be a years-long process of renewal. “As the situation evolves, we’re evaluating more opportunities and trying to plan for the long-term recovery. Many of our partners on the ground don’t have fully baked plans yet, as the war is ongoing and the full needs aren’t yet clear,” said Berry Meyerowitz, co-chair of UJA’s Israel & Overseas Committee. “It’s important that our partners in Israel know that we’re going to be with them for the long-term.”

The first phase of emergency allocations was focused on urgent needs. The current phase is focused on building an enduring recovery. The devastating effects of the October 7th attacks will be felt for many years—and can only be addressed through a sustained effort. The message UJA heard from our partners on the ground was clear: they need Toronto to provide ongoing support for community rehabilitation work that can only take place once the war concludes.

Through your generosity, Israelis can be confident that in the Toronto Jewish community, they have a friend and a partner who will always stand by them.

YOUR IMPACT: UJA’S EMERGENCY CAMPAIGN FOR THE PEOPLE OF ISRAEL*

12,000+ donors to the campaign, more than any other emergency campaign in UJA’s history.

$70+ MILLION raised in total.

$26.5+ MILLION invested thus far to meet immediate and emergency needs, with the remaining dollars to be allocated for long-term needs as they emerge.

2,000 FAMILIES VICTIMIZED BY TERRORISTS received emergency payments in the first week after October 7th, all funded by UJA. This represented half of the victim families identified in the aftermath of the attacks.

42 TONS OF MEDICAL SUPPLIES AND ESSENTIAL GOODS airlifted to our partners in Israel, all donated by community members through UJA Genesis’ emergency drive.

See page 30 of this report for a complete breakdown of Emergency Appeal allocations and their impact.*

LEORA PRUTSCHI

UJA Reverse ShinShinim

UJA’s Reverse ShinShinim Year of Service is a unique opportunity for high school graduates in the GTA to spend a gap year in the community of Eilat-Eilat, volunteering in social services. In late 2023, Leora and fellow Reverse ShinShinim devoted their time to Israeli evacuees—helping kids celebrate birthdays and organizing fun activities for them. These programs offered needed moments of normalcy and hope amid a terrible situation.

IN TORONTO, ISRAELIS FOUND A HOME AWAY FROM HOME

IN 2023, YOUR GIFT HELPED US CARE FOR THE NEWCOMERS WHO NEEDED US

Hundreds of Israelis arrived in the GTA in the weeks and months that followed October 7th, registering for support through Jewish Immigrant Aid Services (JIAS)—a UJA-funded agency. The needs of these Israelis were unique and multifaceted.

JIAS settlement workers organized information sessions and helped newcomers find temporary housing, receive financial aid, and navigate other sources of support.

One of these Israeli Canadians was Jennifer. Originally from Toronto, she had been living in Israel for nearly a decade with her two children and Israeli husband. An early childhood educator, Jennifer ran her own business in Israel teaching English to children. Everything changed when the war started.

An Israeli Canadian mother who found normalcy and community in Toronto following October 7th.

“My children and I had a really difficult time being in Israel in the midst of the war...I thought it would be best for us to come here and feel a sense of normalcy,” Jen said. “My children needed to feel safe.”

Offering Israeli kids safety and comfort, as well as education, was a priority for UJA. We worked with schools and preschools around Toronto to find children a place where they could continue to learn. School-aged children attended day school for one month, at no cost to the parents. But daycare space was harder to find. UJA partnered with our JCCs to set up a drop-in daycare for Israeli parents and their kids. A UJA grant was used to hire an early childhood educator for the kids. That educator was Jennifer.

“I had such a wonderful experience leading the program,” she said. “Many families attended the program and felt a sense of relief to have something structured for their children. They also got support from JF&CS, Jewish Vocational Services, and JIAS, who came twice a week to the program.” This is the power of the UJA network. At a time when they were most vulnerable, these families got all the support they needed—finding jobs, housing, language support, and daycare for their kids. Every agency with a role to play got involved, all because of the impact of your gift.

“The children and families were showered with gifts, surprises, and so much love from the Jewish community,” Jen said. “The Jewish community went above and beyond with their support...we are so grateful to know that we are not alone.”

YOUR IMPACT: SUPPORTING COMMUNITY MEMBERS AFTER OCTOBER 7TH

700+ ISRAELIS ARRIVED IN THE GTA and registered through Jewish Immigrant Aid Services, a UJA-funded agency. They received healthcare, mental health services, temporary accommodations, childcare, and education support.

146 ISRAELI STUDENTS temporarily sheltering in Toronto were placed in UJA partner day schools.

250 MENTAL HEALTH VOLUNTEERS supported 118 individuals and 18 organizations, helping community members overcome trauma after October 7th.

750 PARENTS received UJA guidance on responding to antisemitic incidents at public schools.

CARE PACKAGES, ACTIVITIES, AND OTHER SUPPORTS FOR ISRAELI TORONTONIANS, including those who have a family member who has returned to Israel.

MORE THAN 100 FAMILIES have hosted Israelis for Shabbat via UJA-supported OneTable.

STANDING WITH ISRAELIS AFTER OCTOBER 7TH

On October 7, 2023, 1,200 people were murdered by Hamas terrorists, the deadliest day for Jews since the Holocaust. Thousands were injured, and more than 240 were abducted and taken to Gaza. UJA launched the Emergency Appeal for the People of Israel, with every dollar raised going to Israelis. Nearly 15,000 Toronto community members donated for needs in Israel—more than any other Jewish community in the world (with the exception of New York City).

TORONTO'S JEWISH COMMUNITY RISES AGAINST ANTISEMITISM

UNITED, WE CHALLENGE HATE AND EMERGE STRONGER, EMPOWERED BY YOUR GENEROSITY.

Bomb threats, graffiti, arson, and even gunfire overnight at a Jewish school. The police data reveals that a Jewish community member is now five times more likely to experience a hate crime in Toronto than in New York City. Antisemitism—be it on our streets or social media, in the workplace or on campus—has skyrocketed since October 7th.

It is the repetition of a terrible pattern: whenever terrorism against Israelis escalates, Jews everywhere feel the sting of intensified hate. But this time is different. We're facing a new reality—and it's sadly clear we aren't returning to a pre-October 7th world.

No one organization, program, or initiative can adequately address the issue of antisemitism. This illustrates the power of a gift to UJA—it's an investment in every tool needed to win.

EMPOWERING ACTIVISTS AND BUILDING ALLIES

In times like these, it's easy to hide. But now is the time to be loudly and proudly Jewish—and every voice counts. Shortly after October 7th, UJA convened a "command centre"-style hub, uniting 10 Jewish organizations and volunteers who have experience in advocacy and politics. This hub ensured a joint strategy and ongoing co-ordination in order to empower Jewish activists, build allies beyond our community, and hold antisemites accountable.

Public opinion research conducted by UJA has found that Canadians outside the Jewish community with a close Jewish friend and/or colleague are twice as likely to oppose antisemitism. That's one reason why so much of our work has focused on equipping community members as advocates. Through training programs, 1,000+ Jews in the GTA are able to better advocate for themselves in the workplace, and 700+ can counter antisemitism online.

Community members also needed strategic opportunities to make their voices heard by leaders and decision-makers. Together with our national partners, we have mobilized more than 160,000 community members to send more than 700,000 emails to elected officials through CIJA's action alert system since October 7th.

Polling we conducted in October showed that a majority of Canadians recognize that the Palestinian protests in Canada are tainted by antisemitism. Exposing Canadians to this growing hate and extremism is crucial in raising awareness and building allies. One powerful way we have done this is through our strategic social media campaign,

No Room for Terror, which documents these hate rallies and focuses on Canadian-specific content. Its dynamic video campaigns are targeted beyond our community through digital ads. Between October to February alone, the campaign generated 22 million impressions (the number of times the content was seen online) and reached 2.6 million individual social media users.

LEGAL ACTION AGAINST HATE

Those who spread hate must be held accountable—whether by police, through the civil courts, or by society's leaders. This is why, as a core part of our strategy, we have deployed resources post-October 7th to go on the offence against those who target our community.

Working with law enforcement—both locally and with national agencies—CIJA has shared research that led authorities to make 24 arrests. CIJA's research also led to more than 100 instances in which Canada Border Services Agency blocked a foreign national from entering our country due to extremism.

In Toronto, more than 200 lawyers have come together through CIJA's Legal Task Force to build a powerful, pro bono legal service dedicated to the fight against antisemitism. The Legal Task Force has two core missions: to empower community members to stand up for their rights, and to hold accountable those who target our community. Working across every relevant area of law, this group is taking action through lawsuits, formal complaints to regulatory bodies, and other strategic actions. Since October 7th, the team has assisted more than 300 community members—including teachers, doctors, and healthcare professionals.

Task Force lawyers are also supporting Jewish members of the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC)—the country’s largest federal union—by bringing 14 formal complaints against the union to the Canadian Human Rights Commission. In Toronto, Legal Task Force members are at the forefront of an ongoing lawsuit against Toronto Metropolitan University, and represented our community in court during the successful push for an injunction to remove the hateful encampment at the University of Toronto.

The Legal Task Force is one important example of the short-term actions we have scaled up to combat the rise of antisemitism. But the world has changed dramatically and there is an urgent need to reimagine how our community fights antisemitism, not just now but for the next decade and beyond.

WHAT COMES NEXT

This year, UJA is moving forward with a bold new strategy to transform how our community fights antisemitism. We will build the programmatic infrastructure needed to ensure a strong and sustained approach to community security, legal advocacy, campus advocacy, mobilization of Jewish activists and grassroots groups, and engagement of allies. Doing so is necessary if we are to wage a winning, non-stop fight across different fronts—and ultimately ensure a secure future for our community.

“THIS COURAGEOUS 22-YEAR-OLD HAS TAKEN IT UPON THEMSELF TO HOLD THIS INSTITUTION TO ACCOUNT.”

On April 25th, CIJA announced that their pro bono Legal Task Force was supporting a Toronto Metropolitan University student who was suing the school for their action and inaction with respect to ongoing and pervasive antisemitism. The Task Force has supported more than 300 community members as they face discrimination and hate.

ADVOCACY IN ACTION: HOLDING ANTI-ISRAEL PROTESTORS ACCOUNTABLE

YOUR GIFT MAKES IT POSSIBLE TO STRATEGICALLY PUSH BACK AGAINST HATE

Since October 7th, Toronto's Jewish community has been subjected to hundreds of anti-Israel protests. Some featured thousands of protesters, dominating the downtown core. Others were smaller, yet just as disturbing, particularly those on the Avenue Road overpass, towering above Highway 401.

Why here, nearly a half-hour drive from the Israeli consulate? Because this overpass sits in a largely Jewish area. It was a clear act of intimidation against our community, and it would not be allowed to stand. In the words of Noah Shack, UJA's vice-president for Countering Antisemitism & Hate, in an appearance on CBC's Power & Politics: "These protesters are going on a bridge in a predominantly Jewish neighbourhood chanting for Jews to be driven out of Israel, calling for the country to be destroyed, and with a whole bunch of ugly, libelous claims about the Jewish people and the State of

In response, UJA launched a co-ordinated advocacy campaign with one goal: to end the ongoing disruption at Avenue and the 401.

UJA Community Security had been building a relationship with the Toronto Police Service for years. Through UJA Community Security, we communicated directly with police, and in turn, updated the Jewish community about what we were hearing. Because of this trusted relationship, UJA was confident in voicing the community’s candid concerns about how the protests were being managed.

At the same time, we realized we needed action from the provincial government to ban protests on highway overpasses. With police having to shut down the bridge on a near-daily basis due to safety reasons, it was clear that an overpass should never be the site of a demonstration. Together with CIJA, we mobilized 8,130 community members to email the Government of Ontario calling for a provincial ban on highway overpass protests.

As we shone a light on this issue and called for action, the situation quickly changed. Toronto Police Service Chief Myron Demkiw announced that protests would no longer be permitted on the overpass. The demonstrations, Toronto police said, “pose a public safety threat that has left many in the surrounding Jewish community feeling intimidated.” Days later, when anti-Israel protesters defied the order, three were arrested and charges were laid. Since then, the overpass has remained clear.

This is the impact of advocacy. When we use our voices together in a thoughtful and strategic way, we can make a difference and ensure Toronto is a safe place for our Jewish community. This advocacy can only happen when we invest in it—all made possible by your gift.

YOUR IMPACT: COMMUNITY SECURITY

13,000 CHILDREN AND EDUCATORS RECEIVED ADDITIONAL PROTECTION THROUGH UJA SECURITY GRANTS TO JEWISH INSTITUTIONS. Sixty-four community organizations will receive matching funding from UJA and the provincial government to enhance their security infrastructure.

MORE THAN HALF OF ALL JEWS IN THE GTA are consistently reached by UJA Community Security’s security alerts, which are used to share urgent and verified information about antisemitic incidents and threats to the community.

24 ARRESTS AND MORE THAN 100 INSTANCES IN WHICH INDIVIDUALS WERE BLOCKED ENTRY INTO CANADA because of the work being led by CIJA’s research team, which has been documenting and exposing acts of antisemitism. Where appropriate, evidence that can enable action is shared with law enforcement.

UJA'S EMERGENCY ALLOCATIONS TO ISRAEL*

In the wake of the October 7th attacks, UJA launched an Emergency Appeal for the People of Israel. Every dollar raised is being directed to NGOs in Israel, working in partnership with our team on the ground to identify changing needs and ways we can make the greatest impact. Our longstanding partners, including those in the city of Sderot, have made it clear that they need Toronto's support for a long-term recovery. With this in mind, grants are being made in a phased approach, with the first wave of funding dedicated to urgent needs and subsequent phases focusing on recovery and rebuilding in southern Israel as conditions permit.

AS OF JULY 1, 2024,

$26.547 MILLION

IN EMERGENCY GRANTS HAVE BEEN ISSUED.

For transparency, the full list of grants may be found in the pages to follow.

DIRECT AID TO VICTIMS OF TERRORISM AND TRAUMATIZED COMMUNITIES. $4 million (via The Jewish Agency for Israel) to provide rapid payments to thousands of families victimized by terror. In addition, $1.5 million (in partnership with the City of Sderot) will assist 1,000 vulnerable families who are traumatized in our devastated partner city.

HUMANITARIAN AID FOR ISRAELIS SHELTERING ACROSS THE COUNTRY. $2.9 million (in partnership with the HESEG Alumni Association) to distribute necessities for the tens of thousands of Israelis who have been evacuated from Gaza border areas and are being housed in private homes or community facilities elsewhere. With many traumatized and having fled their homes with very little, having access to mattresses, bedding, housewares, and essential supplies will enable them to shelter with some comfort and normalcy

TRAUMA AND EMOTIONAL FIRST AID. $2.75 million (via Sderot Resilience Center) to fund mental health professionals to provide emergency support for devastated residents.

CRITICAL SERVICES FOR EVACUEES FROM SDEROT AND OTHER ISRAELI COMMUNITIES NEAR GAZA. $1.5 million (via The Jewish Agency) to provide a range of urgent services for those who have taken shelter in Israel's southernmost regions far from Gaza. This includes mental health supports, schooling for children, medical services, and community and social programs for evacuees. With 60,000+ sheltering in host communities in the far south, the daily needs are far beyond the local capacity.

REVOLUTIONIZING ISRAEL'S MENTAL HEALTH SYSTEM FOR THE LONG TERM. $1.3 million (in partnership with the Jewish Federations of Chicago and Houston, Jewish Federations of North America, and Israel's Ministry of Health) to establish 16 intensive mental healthcare intervention centres across the country for patients in need. The centres will be staffed by professional therapy teams specializing in a wide range of treatments for those suffering from trauma, including evacuees and terror victims.

PARTNERSHIP WITH SDEROT FOR LONG-TERM RECOVERY. $1 million over three years (via The Jewish Agency) to create and fund initiatives to support the rehabilitation of Sderot. Through this effort, Toronto will play a key role in a global partnership between Diaspora communities and specific Israeli towns and villages devastated by the October 7th attacks.

STRENGTHENING MENTAL HEALTH INFRASTRUCTURE FOR THE CHILDREN OF SDEROT. $872,350 (in partnership with Israel's Ministry of Education, the Sderot Municipality, and the government's Tkuma Administration) to provide new mental health and trauma supports for students in Sderot's schools. We will create 20 new therapeutic spaces where students will have access to therapists and healing activities that will help them build resilience and overcome trauma.

EMERGENCY PURCHASES OF FOOD, BABY PRODUCTS, AND MEDICAL EQUIPMENT FOR EVACUATED ISRAELIS. $250,000 (via Brothers and Sisters for Israel) and $500,000 (via Leket, Israel's National Food Bank) to provide urgently needed food and essentials for evacuees from Gaza border communities now located in the Eilat/Eilat area.

PROTECTIVE EQUIPMENT AND EMERGENCY KITS FOR FIRST RESPONDERS. $175,000 (in partnership with the City of Sderot) and $500,000 (via Magen David Adom) for trauma medical kits, as well as helmets and armour-plated vests to protect from rockets and other attacks, to be used by paramedics, social workers, and resilience staff.

EVACUATION OF ISRAELIS LIVING WITH DISABILITIES FROM COMMUNITIES NEAR GAZA. $660,000 (via Shalva) to help with the relocation of 1,500 evacuees with special needs, providing essential supplies, medication, clothing, and physical and emotional care.

AIRLIFT OF DONATED MEDICAL SUPPLIES AND OTHER ESSENTIAL GOODS. $630,000 (via UJA Federation) to airlift approximately 42 tons of basic medical supplies and essentials donated by our community through UJA Genesis' emergency drive.

ESSENTIAL SUPPLIES FOR ISRAELIS FROM THE GAZA BORDER AREA SHELTERING IN HOST COMMUNITIES. $500,000 (in partnership with the Eilat Regional Council) to fund water, food, clothing, medicine, baby products, generators, and other needed supplies for those evacuated from the war zone.

EQUIPMENT TO AID IN THE RECOVERY, IDENTIFICATION, AND BURIAL OF VICTIM. $500,000 (via ZAKA) for protective gear, body bags, and rescue and recovery equipment for the process of ensuring those murdered in terror attacks can receive a proper burial. Since the Hamas attacks, ZAKA volunteers have recovered hundreds of bodies under horrific conditions.

LIFE-SAVING EMERGENCY SUPPLIES FOR EMERGENCY MEDICS. $500,000 (via United Hatzalah) for vital items, such as trauma first-aid kits, tourniquets, defibrillators, and protective gear. United Hatzalah is a volunteer emergency medical service, with many of their 6,500 medics across Israel serving as first responders and saving lives throughout the recent attacks.

ASSISTANCE FOR ELDERLY ISRAELIS LIVING IN ISOLATION UNDER ROCKET FIRE. $500,000 (via the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee) to provide community workers who locate and care for vulnerable seniors living within 20 km of Gaza. This ensures those who are isolated and lacking other sources of aid receive continual check-ins, emotional support, and access to essential services.

MEDICAL EQUIPMENT FOR ADVANCED, EMERGENCY TREATMENT. $500,000 (via Sourasky Medical Center—Ichilov) to support treatment for wounded Israelis. As one of Israel's most advanced hospitals, Ichilov receives patients who require complex surgeries—combined with trauma psychological care—and have been transferred from smaller hospitals in southern Israel.

SUMMER CAMP FOR THE YOUTH OF SDEROT. $500,000 (via Summer Camps Israel) to enable 1,000 children and teens from this traumatized city to participate in a ten-day, overnight summer camp program. Summer Camps Israel has a unique connection to our community, having been established by the Morris and Rosalind Goodman Family Foundation—a Canadian organization.

TRAUMA AND PSYCHOLOGICAL TRAINING FOR FRONTLINE WORKERS. $500,000 (via the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee) to equip social workers, teachers, caregivers, and medical staff to provide trauma relief and psychological support to those who are acutely at-risk.

ASSISTANCE TO VULNERABLE HOLOCAUST SURVIVORS AND OTHER SENIORS IN AREAS THREATENED BY ROCKET FIRE. $445,000 (via Amigour) for aid workers to provide direct support to this uniquely at-risk population, including through food packages, check-ins from professional staff, respite programs, and psychological counselling.

SUPPORTING THE NEEDS OF DISPLACED RESIDENTS. $400,000 (via United Israel Appeal—Canada in partnership with The Jewish Agency) for essential supplies and services for residents of Sderot and the Gaza border region who are now sheltering in Eilat/Eilot and Bat Yam. As the war continues, the needs of evacuees continue to grow. These funds will help evacuees access the full range of supports needed, such as educational and social programs, as well as mental health and employment services. It will also support the purchase of school supplies and laptops needed for school or work.

EDUCATION FOR DISPLACED TEENS. $400,000 (via Unistream) for the development of the Safe Haven Complex, which offers interactive stations with AI and science programming to engage youth from the Gaza border region currently sheltering elsewhere in the country.

REHABILITATION FOR THE INJURED. $400,000 (via Beit HaLochem) to provide services such as hydrotherapy, physiotherapy, therapeutic devices, specialized sports equipment, and programming for those wounded in acts of terrorism or recovering from wounds post-military discharge.

POST-TRAUMA SUPPORT FOR VICTIMS OF TERROR. $400,000 (via One Family Fund) to operate support groups for victims of terror, providing personalized therapy and daily psychological assistance for those who have experienced unimaginable trauma.

ISRAEL EMERGENCY ALLOCATIONS

FOOD RELIEF FOR VULNERABLE ISRAELIS.

$200,000 (via Jerusalem Food Rescue) to scale up its capacity to rescue surplus food from local vendors and distribute it to families struggling with food insecurity. This investment will enable Jerusalem Food Rescue to distribute, on a weekly basis, at least nine tons of produce that would otherwise be thrown out.

VETERAN-TO-VETERAN SUPPORT AND RECOVERY ASSISTANCE.

$200,000 (via Brothers for Life) to provide critical medical support to wounded Israelis who have been discharged from military service, including medical devices, PTSD counselling, and mentorship.

TECHNOLOGY TO ASSIST RESILIENCE CENTRES TO COPE WITH THE MASSIVE GROWTH IN CLIENTS.

$200,000 (via Hilma) to develop technology to allow clients to be automatically matched to services based on their unique needs. With the Eshkol Regional Council Resilience Center alone seeing an increase from 1,200 patients to 17,000 requests for help, this technology will be instrumental locally and nationally in ensuring those who need mental health first aid are able to access it quickly.

ADDICTIONS AND MENTAL HEALTH SUPPORT.

$150,000 (via the Israel Centre of Addition) to provide mental health services for vulnerable Israelis—with a focus on PTSD, anxiety, addictions, and trauma—including a hotline and emergency psychological aid.

ADVOCACY FOR THE RETURN OF HOSTAGES.

$150,000 (via the Raoul Wallenberg Centre in partnership with the Hostage and Missing Families Forum) to support the efforts of affected families to raise awareness about the hostages around the world.

EMERGENCY AID FOR YOUNG LEADERS WHO WERE BASED IN THE GAZA BORDER COMMUNITIES OF KIBBUTZ SUFA AND KIBBUTZ NIR OZ.

$150,000 (via Kedma) for trauma counselling, grants for urgent needs, and other essential supports for a cohort of young adults who were serving these communities as part of the Kedma program, and have evacuated with virtually nothing. Like many Israeli villages along the Gaza border, Sufa and Nir Oz were targeted by Hamas terrorists for widespread massacre and destruction.
