In March 1938, when Hitler's armies annexed Austria, forcibly stripping the country of its sovereignty and officially making it part of Germany, there were 185,000 Jews living in Vienna. Out of a population of two million people residing there, this community of Jews, many generations old, constituted ten percent. Vienna held the largest population of German speaking Jews in all of Europe at the time. Julie Metz's mother, Eva Singer, was one of them.

2022 County-wide Purim Celebration Welcomes Residents from Near and Far

Over one hundred Orange County residents showed up to celebrate Purim in style on March 13, 2022 at Temple Sinai in Middletown. The entertainment included dance music and 16 carnival stations ranging in games of wit, skill, and precision – like fortune telling, origami, mask and crown making, speed Bingo, Arcade Basketball, Darts, and a Target Gallery to name a few. Both young and old came in costume to have some Purim fun. The affair ended with an awards ceremony and costume contest. The Jewish Federation of Greater Orange County, NY brings the community together through education, events, and outreach programs. This event was co-sponsored by the leadership of; Temple Sinai in Middletown, Temple Beth Shalom in Florida, Temple Beth Jacob in Newburgh and Congregation Beth Hillel in Walden.

Orange County Teens Visit the Holocaust Museum and Center for Tolerance and Education

The Jewish Federation of Greater Orange County sponsored a group of 21 teens and their parents to the Museum in Rockland County on March 27, 2022 to learn about Moral Courage through the lens of the Holocaust. Linda Suss, an educator at the museum, taught the teens about the “righteous among us” who risked their own lives to help total strangers. She encouraged them, while viewing the exhibits in the museum, to consider how the photos and stories made them feel, as a tool for empathizing with the people they saw in the exhibits. Kathy Kimball-Wurster, Director of the Zachor Antisemitism Initiative and Wendy Cedar, Executive Director of the Jewish Federation of Greater Orange County, expressed tremendous gratitude for the support of donors who made this trip a reality: the Zachor Antisemitism Initiative and the Littman Jewish Orange Youth Teen Initiative.
