Technion alumna Kira Radinsky, named in Forbes' 2015 "30 Under 30 in Enterprise Technology," created an algorithm to predict everything from natural disasters to corporate sales.

In the early days, the Technion was dedicated to building the State of Israel.
Today it is impacting the world.

The achievements of Technion alumni like Kira are enhancing life for people worldwide in the areas of medical devices, water conservation, protective technologies and more.

The American Technion Society has been a proud partner in these efforts. Help us ensure that the Technion continues to make a difference.
